

Act for BIRDS

A CONVERSATION ABOUT NATURE LAWS

BirdLife Australia invites you to a community forum to learn more and take action.

Who: BirdLife Australia's conservation campaigns manager Margaret Quixley, Cairns and Far North Environment Centre (CAFNEC) president Denis Walls, environmental planner and consultant Paul Fisk and Environmental Defenders Office Northern Queensland (EDONQ) solicitor Kristiana Ward.

Where: Cairns City Library, 151 Abbot Street, Cairns

When: Thursday 10th May. Arrive at 6pm for a 6:30 start.

What: Australia's nature laws are failing to protect our unique birds and habitats.

Right now in North Queensland, migratory shorebirds, including the Critically Endangered Eastern Curlew, are under threat from the impacts of inappropriate coastal development. As one of the most threatened suites of species in the world, their survival depends on protecting all remaining habitat across their migration route.

Come along to hear from experts on local case studies, the national issues that underlie them, and learn about our strategy to secure stronger nature laws.

You'll get the opportunity to share ideas, refine tactics and take practical actions together that will make a real difference for the places and birds you love!

THURSDAY 10 MAY - 6:00PM - 8:30PM @ CITY LIBRARY - BOOK NOW: ACTFORBIRDS.ORG/EVENTS
